

mentorship match program

Accepting Applications for Mentees and Mentors

The CON-SNP Mentorship Matching Program aims to build a relationship between established researchers and leaders in obesity and trainees early in their career.

This program is intended to facilitate and promote networking and career development opportunities for mentees who show strong potential for a career in obesity-related areas, including academia, industry, government, NGO/non-profit, and the clinical sector. We are looking for both mentors and mentees to join our program!
